

WRITE A SPORTS BLOG FREE

From free plugins to how-to guides on blogs, the information and resources are If you're a high school football coach, it's probably going to be easier to write.

Designers, art directors and programmers work hard to put together solutions that feature broad functionality and look great. There are thousands upon thousands of sports fans out there who would love to become writers, so the competition is pretty fierce. It covers topics like reviews of new bikes and parts, opinions and essays, trail information, and fun events. The solution might be built into the theme or available via a WordPress plugin. Unfortunately, most of them either don't specify pay or rely on a revenue sharing scheme, and that's generally what you'll find when you go looking around the web for writing jobs in this niche. A general rule of thumb: use one H1 per page and multiple H2s and H3s based on your content topics and length. Dirt Rag Mag Dirt Rag is a magazine dedicated to mountain biking. SBnation SBnation is a big independent sports blog network. Open up to your readers where you can. Join Pinecone Research Now Calling all sports fanatics! You can send in a query for a print or web article. Set up your blog on a hosting service. Sometimes different word combinations create awkward new words or interpretations, e. Go here to sign up at SBnation. Where to Find Freelance Sports Writing Jobs Online 12UP is an online publication dedicated to sports, from coverage of sporting events to game predictions, and everything in between. And, if that fails, use the Google search engine to try and find answers. You can pitch article concepts or apply for a regular contributor position, which apparently offers a very flexible schedule and the freedom to come up with your own article ideas. The more they know about each, the more versatile they will be as sports journalists, making them more of an asset to any outlet. FanSided FanSided is an online publication about basketball. Trying to design your own logo â€” Sometimes things are better left to professionals. But getting paid to do it is even better. Stack your points and redeem them: Simple! If you like to take up this challenges, I love to hear from you. In fact, you might not get one of your top 10 choices. The sites above are just a sample of the many sports writing gigs available. You'll need to fill out a form and submit links to two published sample articles. Fortunately, though it will probably take a while to reach the top of the sports writing ladder, you can still make some decent money along the way. But if a writer really loves basketball, he or she should learn all about how the sport became popular, how to play the game and who the greatest players are in order to write effectively about it. Use your good judgement. To check to see if your domain names are available, go to Bluehost and enter your options into their new domain checker. When your not making good progress, take a break and then come back to your work. Bluehost: Our Recommendation for Hosting Bluehost offers different plans to accommodate various needs. Other Sites To Write For And if sports writing doesn't interest you that much, we have several other posts with companies that need writers for other topics, such as â€¢. How does it sound? This encourages your readers to also follow your personal brand and get some insight into how you think. Utilize interview quotes when needed. Once completed we will set you up as a Contributor usually within business days and email you with our Instructional Video and information on getting started. Upwork always has quite a few job postings looking for writers who can produce sports content quickly and professionally. Truly, the next innovation in sports talk. In the early going especially, it helps to have frequent entries as you build up to a critical mass of content and cultivate an audience. Set up your blog on a hosting service Hosting is the rent you pay for the space your sports blog takes up on a server. Spend time and get it right.